Crowndale Centre,
218 Eversholt St
NW1 1BD

Developed in partnership with the internationally-renowned Anna Freud Centre for Children and Families and the Centre for Parent and Child Studies at the South London and Maudsley NHS Trust, this 3-day course will give you knowledge, skills and practical tools for helping children, families and adults.

- ▶ Suitable for anyone from any sector that helps people, and particularly if your work supports children and families
- ▶ Explore systemic and relational theory, drawing on the evidence-based AMBIT approach and Family Partnership Model
- ▶ Develop practical skills to apply in your daily work
- ▶ Develop ideas for how networks can help people
- ▶ Post-course support to apply learning into practice
- ▶ Further dates available through 2019
